

Message from the Chair

Dear Members

This will be my last newsletter as Chair, as my tenure comes to an end at the forthcoming AGM on 12 December. It doesn't seem long ago that I was writing my first newsletter but two years have passed very quickly.

I am pleased that BACFI has continued to put on good quality events that are relevant to its members. BACFI has also represented its members at the Bar Council and its committees and contributed to relevant consultations (sometimes via the Bar Council and, where necessary, directly) throughout the year. The BSB has been consulting on the future of training for the Bar and BACFI has continued to press for more flexibility, particularly at the pupillage stage, to promote access to training via the employed Bar.

I would like to thank the members of the General Committee, who have contributed to consultations, organised events and represented BACFI members on Bar Council committees. In particular, I would like to thank Sally Bevan, who has acted as Chair of the Professional Issues Sub-Committee and taken the lead on some important initiatives during the year. I would also like to thank Helen Fletcher Rogers and Tricia Howse; both of whom have continued to be actively involved with matters of interest to BACFI. I must also thank Sandra Janes, who has done her very best to get me to do things on time and without whom BACFI simply wouldn't be able to operate.

At the AGM in December, some of the members of the General Committee will be standing for re-election and you will have an opportunity to elect the next Chair. Do please consider whether or not you have the time and desire to stand for office or to become more involved in the work of BACFI. We have vacancies for: Hon. Secretary, Junior Vice Chair, Chair of the Professional Issues Sub-Committee and Membership Secretary.

I am looking forward to the Denning Lecture on 24 November 2017, which will be presented by Sir Christopher Clarke and hosted by our President, Lady Hale. Looking further ahead, we have already started to plan events for 2018 and I wish my successor all the very best.

Thank you for supporting BACFI.

Simon Broomfield

A Day in the Life of a Lawyer from.....

Amali deSilva, General Counsel at Channel 4, Mark Karpiniski of the RAF Police, Akbar Khan, Secretary-General of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association and Simon Puleston-Jones, Head of Europe, Futures Industry Association, formed the panel at our seminar on 3 October at Middle Temple. They shared anecdotes about their work experience, how they came to have their jobs, and what a typical day for them involves, which is often not typical! The seminar was well attended by both those working in various in-house roles and students. Everyone agreed that the evening was very worthwhile and gave delegates lots to think about as to which direction they would like to take with their careers, and made them aware of the wide range of positions available to lawyers. We thank the speakers for providing excellent insights into their very different jobs. It is hoped that we will organise a similar event next year with different speakers so if you would like to speak please let Sandra know.

Professional Issues Update

The BSB has recently published policy consultations on two very important topics.

The first contains the proposed approach for ensuring that the Competition and Markets Authority's recent recommendations for greater transparency about service, price and consumer redress for all lawyers are reflected in regulations for the Bar.

The second concerns some proposed updates to regulations governing parts of the education and training system for prospective barristers. It includes a review of the rules about pupillage.

The BACFI Professional Issues Sub-Committee will be providing responses to both these consultations and welcome any members' contributions. If you'd like to get involved please contact secretary@bacfi.org.

Naraindra Maharaj and the Legal Panel for the Government's Apprenticeship Programme

Naraindra, who is a long standing BACFI member, has been selected to be a Legal Panel Member of the UK Government's apprenticeship programme. This is to assist young individuals who would like to pursue a course of study to achieve a Legal education and at the same time make a career for themselves through being apprentices in legal depts. in law firms, industry, etc. There are 15 members in this panel and there are similar panels covering other professions, etc.

He has so far attended the only panel meeting held and met other members of the panel. At this meeting they were given more details by the Coordinator and Chair as to their responsibilities, etc. which lie ahead. He is looking forward very much to this challenge where he may be able to assist our young women and men in their chosen career paths and hopefully assist in their development.
